GIVE US A MINUTE.

SHOW US WHAT YOU THINK ABOUT JUSTICE.

Write. The Questioning Justice Project is collecting original one-minute monologues, poems, and scenes about justice from writers aged 15 to 25. Selected pieces will appear in our April show.

Submit. Please email submissions to emurra17@uncc.edu by Friday, February 28, 2020. All submissions should be: □ original, unpublished works □ titled ☐ 300 words or less □ labeled with writer's name, age, phone and email. If 18 or younger, please also include parent/quardian: □ name phone □ email If submitting as part of a class or organization, please also include: □ name of school/class/organization □ name of teacher/leader/facilitator □ teacher/leader/facilitator email Writers whose work is selected for performance and/or display will be contacted by mid March. Attend. Come see the show on April 3 or 4 in UNCC's Robinson Hall on at 7:30 pm.

Questions? Contact Beth Murray (emurra17@uncc.edu)

The Questioning Justice Project is an applied theatre class in which university students collect, research and devise ideas about justice into a performance targeting young adults (15-25). April 3&4, 7:30pm Robinson Hall Black Box Theatre. Admission is free, first come first seated. SPONSORED BY THE UNIVERISITY OF NORTH CAROLINA CHARLOTTE DEPARTMENT OF THEATRE